5. Discuss Green Tier Legacies

Weston Wegener, Green Tier Program Specialist with the Wisconsin DNR gave a presentation on Green Tier Legacy Communities, stating it is a free and voluntary program that exists to help communities with sustainability goals. Participation includes all divisions of local government in Wisconsin and addresses sustainability issues and opportunities. Participation also positions communities favorably for certain WDNR grants. Even though the program is free and voluntary, there are a few commitments that are necessary. The city would need to adopt a resolution stating the intent to join the charter and adhere to the charter commitments, conduct a baseline assessment, report annually on sustainability goals and engage with the network.

Scott Thoresen, Director of Public Works, explained that the intent tonight is for Weston to do his presentation and then for the commission to determine if it is in the best interest of the city to join the Green Tier Legacy Communities. If the commission wants to pursue becoming a member, then the commission would need to recommend to council to adopt a resolution to be a member of Green Tier Legacy Communities.

Discussion followed.

Scott Thoresen, Director of Public Works stated it appears that the commission is in favor of joining the Green Tier Legacy Communities. He explained a resolution can be drafted and brought forward as an action item at the next quarterly meeting.

William Niedzwiedz stated that professors at St. Norbert or UWGB might be willing to have classes work on projects to help the commission.

Renee Gasch stated she is in favor of pursuing the resolution, however would still be interested in pursuing other avenues as well.

RESULT: NO ACTION

6. Discuss Sustainable Practices in City's Operations

Scott Thoresen, Director of Public Works, reviewed some sustainability practices the city currently implements.

Alderperson Nelson commented that the Sustainability Commission can be the connection of what the city is doing internally at the staff level and what the community can do. City staff is already very interested in sustainability practices and the community can be educated on what is being done and what residents can do.

RESULT: NO ACTION

IV. Future Agenda Items

Scott Thoresen, Director of Public Works requested the Green Tier resolution, any recommended budget items, and to view the green roof.
